

Newsweek

Newsweek Releases 2015 High School Rankings

Sayville High School has been named one of America's top high schools in Newsweek's 2015 High School Rankings. To learn your school's standing, please see the Newsweek High School Rankings, 2015.

As over 16,000 schools were considered for the rankings, we'd like to congratulate you on this impressive achievement. Your faculty and staff, students, alumni and parents have every reason to be proud. We invite you to share this accomplishment with your community.

[Newsweek 2015
High School
Rankings](#)

Share the 2015 Newsweek High School Rankings on social media using the hashtag #TopHighSchools2015.

Here is a sample Tweet for you to share on your school's Twitter account:

#TopHighSchools2015 Our school is ranked as one of @Newsweek's top High Schools in the U.S. <http://www.newsweek.com/high-schools/america-top-high-schools-2015>

Newsweek's High School Rankings have long served as a guide for parents and students to identify the schools that do the best job of preparing students for college. This year, we are producing two sets of rankings to recognize a wider array of schools and providing a broader profile of each school. We congratulate you on your school's excellent service to students.

The Newsweek High School Rankings 2015 logo, plaques and banners are available for licensing/purchase exclusively from our licensing partner, PARS International. For more information, please go to Newsweek Reprints.

Best Regards,

The Newsweek High School Rankings Team